2:00 PM - 10:00 PM
TOUR 1. 30 Years of New Urbanism in 2 Days: Fun Bus Tour & Critique of Leading Projects

THURSDAY, MAY 20 –
SATURDAY, MAY 22, 2010

OPEN SOURCE CONGRESS

The Congress for the New Urbanism (CNU) is driven by small groups of enthusiastic people working together to tackle today’s challenges facing our built and natural environment. The Open Source Congress feeds that energy by providing a framework for freestyle, user-driven “mini-sessions” to form in the midst of the larger Congress.

How does the Open Source Congress work?
Have a topic that needs discussion? Pick a time, post it to the Open Source schedule board, interested people will show up at your meeting, collaborate with you, take notes and create CNU’s next big innovation. Volunteer facilitators help participants create and manage their own working sessions around questions they feel are of strategic importance. Just curious? Simply join a session that’s of interest to you, and let the collaboration begin.

What’s in it for me?
Do you have a new idea worth discussing? Are you looking for help with a current project? Are you doing something innovative? Ask a volunteer to point you to Open Source Central, and experience how effective the teamwork by Open Source can be. Newcomers are especially welcome!

8:30 AM - 5:00 PM
ND 301: IMPLEMENTING THE LEED FOR NEIGHBORHOOD DEVELOPMENT RATING SYSTEM / Room 301-302
Learn how to apply the LEED for Neighborhood Development rating system to a real project. Walk through the phases of a typical project and the key decisions that project teams must make, including key stakeholder considerations. Engage with experienced LEED Faculty™ and other participants in interactive activities using case examples that enable you to work hands-on with LEED implementation strategies and rating system tools, including project forms. ND 251 or ND 252 is recommended prior to taking this course.

Ideal audience: Professionals (planners, urban designers, architects, engineers, etc.) already familiar with the basic concepts of the LEED for Neighborhood Development Rating System, but new to implementing it on projects; new LEED APs; LEED APs following the prescriptive path; LEED AP ND credential holders seeking LEED-specific CEUs for GBCI’s credential maintenance

SMARTCODE INTENSIVE / Grand Salon B

SmartCode Intensive is an advanced session meant for seasoned urbanists who have studied or used form-based codes intimately. It's everything you need to catch up on the SmartCode's latest advances. Top experts on the SmartCode will deliver a fast-paced 9.5 hour session on the power of this form-based code -- transect-based code -- unified development code -- model ordinance. The SmartCode and its modules represent the input of countless planners, politicians, developers and citizens -- a collective knowledge base that spans decades.

SPEAKERS: Nathan Norris, Rick Hall, DeWayne Carver, Hazel Borys, Ann Daigle, Laura Hall, Andrés Duany, Robert Gibbs, Galina Tahchieva, Doug Farr, Dan Stone, Sandy Sorlien, Jennifer Hurley, Peter Swift, Marina Khoury, Ken Groves, Chad Emerson.

Find out more and register at SmartCodeComplete.com. For questions email hazel@placemakers.com or phone (204) 989-0217. Fee: $49

9:00 AM - 12:00 PM

BUILDING SAFER STREETS FOR HEALTHIER NEIGHBORHOODS /

Grand Salon C

Safety standards, liability, and emergency response are often barriers to the implementation of successful livable streets. This 3-hour special session examines the specific concerns that engineers, lawyers, and fire officials have with livable streets, and discusses how to overcome them. Learn how the principles of the New Urbanism can be used to provide a broader, more comprehensive approach to health and life safety, and learn the latest news from CNU's Emergency Response & Street Design Initiative, which has engaged fire marshals and new urbanists to find common solutions that provide great streets.

This session is free and open to all.

Eric Dumbaugh, Assistant Professor, Dept. of Landscape Architecture and Urban Planning, Texas A&M University / Marcy McInelly, Associate Principal, SERA Architects / Sara Zimmerman, Senior Staff Attorney, Public Health Law

& Policy / Matthew J. Trowbridge MD, MPH, Assistant Professor, Department of Emergency Medicine University of Virginia School of Medicine

SESSIONS

Free with Congress Registration.

9:00 AM - 4:00 PM

NEW URBANISM 101 / Grand Ballroom D

This in-depth primer on the history, principles, and concepts of New Urbanism provides Congress attendees the opportunity to hear Andrés Duany and other leading practitioners and authors of the movement discuss why New Urbanism works. The day-long course provides an illustrated introduction and a foundation in key concepts such as conventional vs. traditional development, the Charter, the transect, sustainable urbanism, retrofitting suburbia and healthy communities. Attend this session and you will walk away with an excellent understanding of what makes a great place and why!

Andrés Duany, Principal, Duany Plater-Zyberk & Company / Ellen Dunham-Jones, Professor, Georgia Institute of Technology / Doug Farr, President and Founding Principal, Farr Associates Architecture & Urban Design / Charles Green, Health Communication Specialist, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention / Joseph Kohl, Co-founder, Dover Kohl & Partners / Jeff B. The Home Depot Foundation has launched the Sustainable Cities Institute (SCI) website and city program. SCI supports the CNU 18 Urban Labs and invites you to provide feedback, search, sketch, & submit your concepts for making Atlanta a healthier place at the SCI kiosk.

OPENING NIGHT NETWORKING

7:30 PM - 8:00 PM / Tabernacle, 152 Luckie St, Atlanta
Cash Bar

8:00 PM - 10:00 PM

CNU 18 OPENING SESSION: HEALTHIER CIRCULATION: BICYCLES, CITIES AND THE FUTURE OF GETTING AROUND / Tabernacle, 152 Luckie St, Atlanta

As CNU commences its 18th annual Congress, new urbanists gather to share effective strategies for overcoming the hindering effects of sprawl and disinvestment upon healthy, walkable urban environments. Key to our discussion is how to scale up our success at replacing dysfunctional development with pedestrian-friendly neighborhoods that promote healthy lives, healthy environments, and even healthy wallets?

CNU 18 New Urbanism: Rx for Healthy Places will tackle this question and more, beginning with welcomes from Board Chair Ray Gindroz and from the former Mayor of the City of Atlanta, the Honorable Shirley Franklin. Jennifer Hurley will explain how the new format of Initiative Workshops address obstacles to good design and invite attendees to contribute to CNU's work of reforming practices and regulations.

Honorary Chair, Dr. Howard Frumkin of the CDC, will introduce the evening's main speaker, musician, environmentalist and philanthropist David Byrne. The former "Talking Head" will discuss his recent endeavors into New Urbanism and the problems facing modern urban environments. Byrne's new book, Bicycle Diaries, chronicles how his use of bicycles as his primary form of transportation (and folding bicycles wherever he travels) taught him to view the world and its cities differently.

Before opening the floor to questions from the audience, the topic of 2-wheeled, 2-footed movement will be augmented by cutting-edge urbanists Ellen Dunham-Jones, Charles Brewer and Scotty Greene. Georgia Tech architecture professor Dunham-Jones is CNU 18 Chair and co-author of Retrofitting Suburbia; Brewer is the founder of Mindspring and developer of the CNU Charter Award-winning Glenwood Park in Atlanta; Greene has used enhanced bicycle networks and other urban strategies to energize the Buckhead area of Atlanta in his role as executive director of the Buckhead Community Improvement District.

To close the evening and encourage attendees to submit their remedies to the downtown Urban Lab, Georgia Tech Professor Doug Allen will orient us to the fascinating – and hilarious – history of downtown Atlanta's street grids.

CNU 18 Opening: Raymond L. Gindroz, Co-founder and Principal, Urban Design Associates / The Honorable Shirley Franklin, Former Mayor of the City of Atlanta; Regional Commission on Homelessness and Spelman College Center for Digital Equality / John O. Norquist, President and CEO, Congress for the New Urbanism / Jennifer Hurley, President & CEO, Hurley-Franks & Associates / Douglas C. Allen, ASLA, Senior Associate Dean and Professor, College of Architecture, Georgia Institute of Technology

PANELISTS:

Charles Brewer, Managing Member, Las Catalinas Holding Company, LLC / David Byrne, Artist and Musician / Ellen Dunham-Jones, Professor, Georgia Institute of Technology / Scotty Greene, Former Executive Director, Buckhead Community Improvement District
Limited signed copies of Byrne's Bicycle Diaries will be on sale at the Tabernacle Theatre on May 19 and at the CNU bookstore through the duration of the Congress.

AFTER URBAN SPRAWL AND PUBLIC HEALTH: NEW AGENDAS ON HEALTH AND THE BUILT ENVIRONMENT / Grand Ballroom AB
Six years after publishing their remarkable book on the health impacts of sprawl, the three authors – each distinguished leaders in the impact of the environment on health – will speak to the new opportunities advancing design, research, and policy on healthy placemaking. Dr. Howard Frumkin and Dr. Richard Jackson have both served as director of the National Center for Environmental Health at the Centers for Disease Control. Still with the CDC, Dr. Frumkin is honorary chair of CNU 18 and working on health and climate change. Dr. Jackson led the California Department of Public Health, chaired the American Academy of Pediatrics Committee on Environmental Health and is chair of environmental health sciences at UCLA. Director of the seminal SMARTRAQ study and numerous others, Dr. Lawrence Frank is a landscape architect and holds the Bombardier Chair in Sustainable Transportation Systems at the School of Community and Regional Planning at the University of British Columbia.
Lawrence Frank, Ph.D., AICP, CIP, ASLA, Bombardier Chair in Sustainable Urban Transportation Systems, Institute for Resource and Environment, University of British Columbia / Howard Frumkin, M.D., Ph.D., Special

THE NEXT GENERATION OF NEW URBANISTS: A ONE-DAY CONGRESS / Room 208
A one-day forum for newcomers and veterans alike; students, professionals, advocates, and new members interact, debate, present ideas and explore innovative ways to improve our built and natural environment. NextGen seeks to advance CNU through open source collaboration and encouraging participation among a diversity of experience levels, backgrounds and fields. Help us build momentum and join the discussion. www.cnunextgen.org

9:45 AM - 11:00 AM
ALL TALK? --- HERE'S THE ACTION: HOW CIDS AND OTHER INNOVATIVE ALTERNATIVES HAVE TRANSFORMED DISTRICTS / Grand Ballroom AB
Looking back at the past decade, Atlanta utilized new implementation and financing innovations for transit oriented development, parks and housing. With approvals from the City government and agencies, many transformations of Atlanta's business districts were led by Community Improvement Districts, self-taxing quasi-governmental organizations, steering design and implementation of vital capital improvements. How do CIDs work? District leaders have as many stakeholders as mayors of small towns. From behind-the-scenes of public-private partnerships during 2000-2010, these leaders who will show "before and after" and discuss how they implemented infrastructure retrofits and livable community projects. Susan Mendheim, President, Midtown Alliance/Midtown Improvement District / Shannon Powell, COO, Midtown Alliance/Midtown Improvement District / Scotty Greene, Former Executive Director, Buckhead Community Improvement District / Yvonne Williams, President, Perimeter Community Improvement District / Ernestine Garey, President, Atlanta Development Authority / AJ Robinson, President, Central Atlanta Progress/Atlanta DID / Jennifer Ball, Vice President, Planning, Central Atlanta Progress / Atlanta DID / Charles Whatley, Director of Business Development Moderators: Tyrone Rachal, Senior Development Manager, Atlanta Development Authority / Laura Heery Prozes, Chair, Pre-Congress & Urban Labs

9:45 AM - 12:00 PM
HIA INITIATIVE WORKSHOP: HEALTH IMPACT ASSESSMENT BASICS FOR HEALTHY PLACES / Room 207
Increasing concerns about obesity and other chronic diseases have led to questions about how the places where we live, work, play and learn can influence public health. In response, Health Impact Assessments, or HIAs, can be used to measure a proposed development plan's potential effects on human health. HIAs result in evidence-based recommendations designed to enhance positive health outcomes and minimize negative ones. Seasoned HIA practitioners will provide introductory tools to show you how to conduct an HIA, integrate it into the urban design process and provide resources on how to build your capacity to promote health and equity in the communities where you work. The workshop will conclude with discussion of CNU member interested in establishing a health-based initiative and workplan. James Dills, ORISE Fellow, Division of Nutrition, Physical Activity and Obesity, National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion, CDC / Sarah Heaton Kennedy, MPH, Public Health Analyst, Healthy Community Design Initiative, CDC / Karen Leone de Nie, Research Manager in Community and Economic Development, Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta / Richard Jackson, Professor and Chair, Environmental Health Sciences, UCLA School of Public Health / Michelle J. Marcus, MPH, Research Scientist, Center for Quality Growth and Regional Development, Georgia Institute of Technology / Amanda Thompson (invited) - Planning Director, City of Decatur, GA

11:15 AM - 12:00 PM
COMMUNITY-DRIVEN AND HEALTH-CENTERED: REDEVELOPMENT AT FORT MCPHERSON / Grand Ballroom AB
Redevelopment projects are not always welcomed by existing communities. Using the BRAC closure of Fort McPherson as an example, four speakers will have a conversation about the role of charrettes, Health Impact Assessments, community benefit programs and other means of working with neighbors to advance social justice and equity.
Michael Dobbins, Georgia Institute of Technology / Jane Branscomb, Research Associate, Georgia Health Policy Center / Deborah Scott, Executive Director, Georgia Stand Up / Herman Howard, HOK, / Moderator: Bill Lennertz, Executive Director, National Charrette Institute

TODAY'S BEST FORM-BASED CODES / Room 207
Join us for in-depth analysis of the 2010 FBC Award winners: The Denver Commons, with extensive on-the-ground results; the Heart of Peoria Form-Based Code written for specific areas with high potential for revitalization; and Miami 21, a clear and concise new code for the entire City of Miami.

3:30 PM - 5:00 PM
VISION CALIFORNIA: CLIMATE CHANGE METRICS AND MANDATES FOR HEALTHY REGIONS / Grand Ballroom AB
CNU co-founder Peter Calthorpe presents Vision California, a statewide effort to coordinate land use and transportation investments in meeting the state's environmental and fiscal changes. He will also debut Rapid Fire software that projects GHG, health, and other impacts relative to regional VMT scenarios. This work is being conducted in relation to high-speed rail planning and progressive MPO sustainability planning requirements. Is metric-based statewide land-use planning politically feasible throughout the country? Respondents to this and other questions include Catherine Ross in her capacity as advisor to the White House Office of Urban Affairs and editor of Megaregions; Planning for Global Competitiveness and Andrew Dannenberg speaking relative to his work leading the CDC's Healthy Community Design Initiative.

NEW URBANISM 202s
9:30 AM - 12:30 PM
Require registration and separate fee.

A- DESIGN TECHNIQUES FOR MASTER PLANNING PURSUANT TO A FORM-BASED CODE / Grand Salon A
Leading designers will share the various principles, approaches and tricks of the trade they use to design within the parameters of a form-based code. Panelists will share their approach to designing buildings, blocks, and neighborhoods to make the most out of form-based zoning. Following brief presentations from the panelists, attendees will have the opportunity to implement the designers' approaches in a hands-on design session. This interactive session is an excellent opportunity for designers and developers interested in building within form-based codes. For regulators responsible for enforcing form-based codes, there will be a separate breakout session aimed at identifying and resolving designs that conflict with regulations. Robert Alminana, AICP, LEED AP, Principal of Hall Alminana Inc. / James Dougherty, Director of Design, Dover, Kohl & Partners / Geoff Dyer, Director of Canadian Operations, PlaceMakers, LLC; Principal and Urban Designer, T-Six Urbanists Inc, Placemakers LLC / Daniel Parolek, AIA, Principal, Opticos Design, Inc. / Moderator: Caleb Racicot, Senior Principal, Tunnell-Spangler-Walsh & Associates, Joni Priest, Planner, Nashville Metro Planning Department

B- INNOVATIVE METHODS FOR ASSESSING HEALTH AND CLIMATE IMPACTS OF DEVELOPMENT AND TRANSPORTATION INVESTMENTS / Grand Salon B
Learn innovative, state-of-the-art tools for planners, architects, engineers and public health officials and researchers in order to assess and quantify relative climate and health impacts of contrasting land use and transportation investment proposals for area-specific and region scale considerations. Presentations include in-depth case study demonstrations of such approaches followed by analyses and step-by-step methods and strategies to meet requirements. Scott Bernstein, Center for Neighborhood Technology / Lawrence Frank, Ph.D., AICP, CIP, ASLA, Bombardier Chair in Sustainable Urban Transportation Systems, Institute for Resource and Environment, University of British Columbia

C- RETAIL LOUNGE 2010: CREATING THE MIXED-USE "HEART" - THE REAL CENTER OF TOWN OF NEW URBANIST PROJECTS / Room 201
Have you ever contemplated the attributes of a thriving mixed-use town, or wondered what it takes to create such a healthy retail environment? Come listen to some of North America's experts in planning, development and leasing, as well of some of our nation's leading retailers and business operators as they discuss lessons learned, proven strategies, and real life examples for the successful development and implementation for creating the central "heart" of town. Presenters will forge a comprehensive definition of mixed-use town centers and provide effective "roll up your sleeves" approaches that are working in today's difficult real estate marketplace. Macon Toledano, Vice President, LeylandAlliance LLC / Michael D. Watkins, AIA AICP LEED-AP CNU-A, Architect, Mike Watkins Architecture / Moderator: Max Reim, Principal and Co-Managing Partner, Live Work Learn Play LLP

D- RETROFITTING SUBURBIA / Room 202

Learn from the authors of Retrofitting Suburbia, A Legal Guide to Urban and Sustainable Development, and the forthcoming Sprawl Repair Manual about the proposed and implemented range of innovative urbanizing solutions to retrofit single-use, low-density, car-dependent property types for a sustainable metropolitan future. Designers, developers and public planners will learn successful techniques - as well as potential pitfalls - for transforming dying malls, moribund strip centers, outmoded office parks, aging garden apartment complexes and more. The presentation of key urban design principles, prototypical techniques, in-depth case studies and regulatory frameworks for implementation will be followed by discussion of the frontiers of innovation for the next generation of suburban retrofits. New urbanists are well positioned to respond to ongoing wrenching shifts in the real estate "sprawl machine" with sustainable redevelopment solutions to the pressures of future population growth. Join us to learn how you can successfully contribute to meeting this challenge.

Daniel K. Stone, Esquire, Partner, McGuireWoods LLP / Galina Tachieva, Partner, Duany Plater-Zyberk / June Williamson, Associate Professor of Architecture - Spitzer School of Architecture, The City College of New York/ CUNY

E- RESUSCITATE, REPOSITION AND REGENERATE - DEVELOPMENT STRATEGIES TO ADAPT TO THIS RECESSION / Grand Salon C

Hear what experienced developers across North America are doing to adjust projects and, some cases, even thrive during this recession. Case studies will focus on New Urbanist projects that successfully completed several phases before this economic recession and how they adjusted projects to respond to market conditions. Learn from esteemed developers as they reflect on competitive advantages and disadvantages of New Urbanist planning, product types, amenities and other elements relative to more conventional development. Panelists will share insights on breathing new life into stalled markets, projects and financing, restructuring and repositioning, investor relations, marketing strategies for generating traffic, tenant negotiations, sales and leasing incentives, public agency assistance with infrastructure funding and entitlement flexibility, redesigns that respond to shifting consumer fundamentals and more.

Tom Troy, Senior Vice President, Sharbell Development Corp / Vince Graham, President, l'On Group / Moderator: Jim Constantine, Looney Ricks Kiss / Sam Sherman, Partner, Sam Sherman Assoc. LLC; New Urban Ventures LLC / Frank Starkey, President Longleaf Development Company

2:00 PM - 5:00 PM

F- INNOVATIONS IN COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING / Room 201

Following a brief introduction concerning the many ways New Urbanism has dramatically changed the creation and implementation of comprehensive plans, this session focuses on techniques and tools planners can use in their practice and presents examples drawn from established best practices and evolving ideas. Participants will gain a practical understanding of how to create extensive plans that elevate the importance of character and quality of place while pursuing the goal of creating healthy communities. Topics include using visualizations to set the plan's vision, creating a place-based plan framework through transportation, incorporating form and character into the plan, and linking sustainability and health-in-the-city principles.

G- SMART GROWTH 101-999 / Grand Salon C

Is it possible to cover all of the bases of smart growth in a single half-day session? Jeff Speck and Mike Lydon vow to try. Creators of the new Smart Growth Manual alongside Andres Duany, the instructors will critically address the topic from the expanse of the metropolis to the detail of the window-box. Duany will kick off this discussion before introducing fellow presenters.

H- "CODING" FOR LEED FOR NEIGHBORHOOD DEVELOPMENT

/ Grand Salon B

Many municipalities are using LEED for Neighborhood Development (LEED-ND) as a sustainability benchmark and to audit their development codes. Unfortunately, such code audits routinely reveal that some or most of LEED-ND is locally illegal. The strategic response often has three steps: make ND legal, encourage ND, and ultimately require ND. This workshop focuses on the techniques of meeting LEED-ND prerequisites and credits through revisions to laws and codes governing existing and new development. This interactive session has three parts: 1) Easy Fixes, 2) Legal Limitations to achieving LEED-ND through codes, and 3) Case Studies of using LEED-ND as an audit tool (Denver/Boulder/DC). A basic familiarity with LEED-ND is assumed.

I- YOU CAN HAVE IT ALL - GREAT PLACES AND PRACTICAL THOROUGHFARES- WITH THE CNU/INSTITUTE OF TRAFFIC ENGINEERS MANUAL / Room 202

The CNU/Institute of Traffic Engineers manual gives us a guidebook on how to design "big" streets that balance among the sometimes competing modes and uses of a public street. Skepticism on the parts of both citizens and public agencies that this is even possible can be a barrier to achieving the goals of the manual. This presentation includes practical tips and case studies for how to convince the "traveling public" and agencies that we can design streets that are both great places and serviceable for traffic.

J- SMALL-INCREMENT URBANISM: FUN WITH CHALLENGING DEVELOPMENT MATH / Grand Salon A

Developing small-scale urban projects is one of the few viable development strategies for times of constrained access to capital. It is likely to be key to development as America recovers and resumes the process of re-urbanization. This session examines the mechanics of developing small urban infill properties: completing or enhancing urban neighborhoods, retrofitting suburban locations, and breaking larger parcels into manageable development increments. Emphasis will be on the influence of the pro forma on scale and form, exploring what elements trigger increased costs and influence phasing potential.

THURSDAY NIGHT SALONS AND ART AUCTION / The Wieland Pavilion at The High Museum of Art, 1280 Peachtree St / MARTA Arts Center Station N5

Take in dinner in Atlanta's popular Midtown neighborhood and then come to the Richard Meier/Renzo Piano-designed High Museum to join in the Salons. A great CNU tradition, tables on a variety of topics hosted by the witty and the wise invite members to meet, brainstorm, and challenge their thinking - aided by a cash bar. Several tables will focus on this year's Pre-Congress Urban Labs and engage with issues of water stewardship, sprawl repair, and responses to civil rights legacies. Other topics include "Sustainability as a National Imperative," "Meta-Physical Planning," "The Shrinking Cities Debate," "Growing Local: CNU 19," and "Public Health Meet-Up." Got a better idea? Come and host a table on your own topic! Attendance is free.

Unique to this year's Salons will be the introduction of an Art Auction. Pieces from established artists as well as your favorite New Urbanists will be on display in the exhibit hall and the evening will culminate with a Live Auction, featuring John Norquist as the auctioneer! Some of the highlights include an original watercolor painting by author James Howard Kunstler, a one-of-a-kind quilt entitled "Transect Zones" by Karen Tunnell, and incredible photographs from Paul Muldawer and Phillip Jones, among many, many others. In addition to the beautiful works of art, we will auction off a weekend stay at Alys Beach, the stunning new beach town on Florida's panhandle. The auction starts at 9:30.

FRIDAY MORNING PLENARY-PARTNERING TO SUPPORT SUSTAINABLE COMMUNITIES: A SPECIAL ADDRESS BY U.S. HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT SECRETARY SHAUN DONOVAN / Grand Ballroom AB
This year, CNU has the privilege of welcoming the Honorable Shaun Donovan, the 15th U.S. Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Overseeing a housing sector ravaged by market shock and the near-failure of lending giants Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac, Donovan has responded with visionary leadership. Recognizing that a U.S. economy in desperate need of a recovery can no longer afford to have Federal departments working at cross-purposes, he has joined with his counterparts at the U.S. Department of Transportation and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency on the innovative Partnership for Sustainable Communities, through which the three agencies target policies that promote automobile dependency and energy inefficiency and reorient them around six livability principles that echo the Charter of the New Urbanism. Donovan brings to the Congress an important and welcome message about the elimination of government silos and the removal of policy barriers in order to make neighborhoods more walkable, connected and diverse — all at a tremendous value to the economy. Board Executive Committee Member Stephanie Bothwell has been leading CNU's efforts in DC and will introduce the Secretary to "what is CNU."

SESSIONS

9:00 AM - 10:15 AM
HOW PUBLIC HEALTH OFFICIALS CAN LEVERAGE CODES FOR HEALTHIER COMMUNITIES (AND HOW CODE WRITERS CAN LEVERAGE PUBLIC HEALTH OFFICIALS FOR HEALTHIER COMMUNITIES) / Room 207

In this session, public health officials will learn how codes are the strongest tools for improving the health of the built environment. Simultaneously, new urbanists will learn how they can utilize health data and information to address concerns of other officials, such as fire chiefs and public works officials. Moreover, presenters will demonstrate the historic basis for considering health in zoning codes, as well as the fast-growing role of Health Impact Assessments.

CREATING LIFELONG COMMUNITIES / Grand Salon B
While many policy makers, designers, architects and builders have researched and discussed extensively the kinds of homes and neighborhoods the growing older adult population will require, change is not occurring on par with the need. This discussion will examine the most important issues that communities must address in order to accommodate the aging of the population and highlight several programs that are attempting to scale up community transformation.

WHERE TO GO FROM HERE? RETHINKING STALLED SUBURBAN DEVELOPMENT / Grand Salon C
The recession has left many towns and cities with unfinished projects in the suburbs. As we anticipate resurgence in growth, what will become of these projects? Will they continue to promote sprawl and traffic congestion, or can they be retrofitted for better, healthier built environments? By studying alternatives and their forms, economics, and phasing now, feasible solutions can be prepared to convert cul-de-sac neighborhoods into more sustainable communities.

HEALTH AND TRANSPORTATION / Grand Salon D
What if we designed our cities to be healthy? How would we change transportation networks to provide opportunities for physical activity, improve safety and respiratory health, reduce greenhouse gas emissions, and ensure the benefits and burdens are distributed equitably? In this session, attendees will be given an overview of transportation-related health impacts; challenged to rethink commonly held assumptions; and provided with data to support healthy and sustainable transportation networks.

WHAT WILL IT TAKE TO MAKE TRANSIT ORIENTED DEVELOPMENT (TOD) WORK IN ATLANTA? / Grand Ballroom AB

For over 30 years, Atlanta has pursued a vision of transit investment leading to dense infill and real estate developers have invested heavily in transit-oriented development To date, however, there has been limited success in achieving transit networks and neighborhoods to support this vision. How have other cities dealt with this challenge and what options might Atlanta pursue? This session matches planners, transit providers and private investors to identify specific actions available to Atlanta for successful TOD.

NEW URBANISM AS AN ANTIDOTE TO URBAN WATER WOES: WATER SUSTAINABILITY THROUGH NEIGHBORHOOD (AND REGIONAL) DESIGN / Room 208 Initiative workshop

Like traffic, we often try to manage water in broad terms of flow and performance levels. Like transportation, regional water resource management by way of engineered collection and diversion has often spread without regard to environmental scale or development context, with predictable declines in watershed health. Taking cues from CNU's transportation reform agenda, this workshop compares sustainable urbanism's water strategies to current conventional standards and regulations that are intended to protect and enhance water resources. In addition to addressing policy and technical barriers to expanded use of green infrastructure, participants can expect a lively discussion on CNU water sustainability priorities, a research agenda, critical partnerships and potential funders to launch a new CNU initiative.

IN SEARCH OF GOOD NEWS: ASSESSING THE NEW URBANISM IN THE FACE OF THE RECESSION / Grand Salon B

As the dramatic "Great Recession" continues to unfold, almost no real estate projects have been immune. Will an equally dramatic "re-set" take place in the industry? Will walkable neighborhood and compact urban development be shining lights to follow as the market emerges from this retraction, decline in values and significant cessation of development? This session will evaluate the past, current and future performance of urban development from cross-cutting perspectives. Attendees will hear the foremost forward-thinking on ways to evaluate the investment performance of urban development. Panelists will discuss the "Property Value Theory" of urbanism, 21st-century household, the new housing paradigm, and the marketability of "Green" in the face of the recession, and possible investment value vs. cost of Health Impact Assessments.

FREEWAY TEARDOWNS / Grand Salon A
CNU's successful campaign to replace unnecessary urban freeways with boulevards continues to accelerate. Learn how well the removal of the West Side Highway in NYC, has worked out for 35 years. Come learn about the removal of the West Side Highway in NYC, CNU's work on the Claiborne Expressway in New Orleans' historic Treme District, and the City of Atlanta's plans relative to the I-75/85 entry and exit ramps. This session will build on the poignant lessons learned from the 1970s success of Atlanta neighborhood activists at stopping an intown freeway from being constructed – however only after 500 homes had already been destroyed. The land now houses Freedom Parkway, the six-mile Freedom Park, higher-density infill development, the Carter Center and Presidential Library and bike and jogging paths that demonstrably contribute to healthy living.

The Home Depot Foundation IS COMMITTED TO building healthy communities AND WE PROUDLY SUPPORT the Congress for the New Urbanism Conference

The Home Depot Foundation has made a commitment to invest $400 million in communities over the next ten years. This will help support the creation of 100,000 affordable homes, built responsibly, and the planting of over three million community trees. While we count the homes that are built and the trees that are planted, the true impact of this work will be measured by the stories of people who will live in healthy, safe and sustainable communities and cities.

HEALTHY RETROFITS OF COMMERCIAL CORRIDORS, REGIONAL MALLS AND SUBURBAN VILLAGES IN A NEW ECONOMY / Room 207

Commercial vacancies continue to climb. The shift from a consumption-economy to an experiential economy may further reduce the amount and type of viable commercial space. What can be done with these underutilized areas? How are they being retrofitted for healthier lifestyles in the Charter Award-winning Woodstock Village; along the strip corridor of US 441 in Broward County, FL; and at the regional mall Val D'Europe? Attendees will learn how these retrofit examples are overcoming the economic and health challenges of auto-dependent suburban patterns in order to become healthy walkable communities.

MID-DAY PLENARY: ADVANCING FEDERAL POLICY AND THE SUSTAINABLE COMMUNITIES PARTNERSHIP / Grand Ballroom AB

How can CNU assist the Sustainability Partnership with implementation? What role in silo-busting can CNU and the New Urbanism play to leverage the Partnership? How can new urbanists' experience with sustainable neighborhood and regional planning assist the federal agencies while learning from them? How can LEED ND and the ITE/CNU Street Guide enrich the Sustainability Partnership? A panel of CNU leadership will discuss the Partnership's agenda and deliberate with leaders from HUD and EPA over specific policy recommendations. Come see the Congress live up to its name! Shelley Poticha, Director, Office of Sustainable Housing and Communities, Housing and Urban Development and Tim Torma, Acting Assistant Director for The Smart Growth Program, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will join CNU leadership to chart strategy for the future.

GREAT AMERICAN GRID / Room 208

This session focuses on the historic American urban patterns of grids and squares, and challenges the New Urbanist trend of emulating European town planning traditions instead of following American ones. The session will undertake a brief historical review followed by outlining the advantages and desirability of grids and squares. The focus will be on lotting, infrastructure development and costs, cost efficiencies, and the health aspects of getting around on a gridded street network of interconnected blocks. This session will challenge practitioners to get out of their comfort zone when it comes to urban plans. Traditional American grids are part and parcel of walkability, aging in place, healthy living and easy to retrofit over the long-term for Complete Street programs.

AGRICULTURAL URBANISM PART 1 / INITIATIVE WORKSHOP / Grand Ballroom AB

The workshop begins with an overview of present-day facts and conditions that challenge the health of developed nations today, including the negative impacts of separating eaters from food sources and subsequent health, environmental, economic, political and social repercussions. Once the importance of incorporating agriculture into contemporary life has been demonstrated, examples of evolving and in-practice solutions to these problems will be shared. These will introduce the theory of Agricultural Urbanism and the experiences of developers who have built and are building communities around the growing of food.

CREATING AUTHENTIC PLACES: EMERGING BEST PRACTICES FOR NEW URBAN DEVELOPERS PART 1 / INITIATIVE WORKSHOP / Grand Salon A
 For more than 20 years, the country's most innovative development professionals have been building authentic places. Our speakers will be discussing emerging opportunities for New Urbanism. With a focus on public private partnerships and inclusionary housing, this session will look in depth at how post-recession projects can advance several key points of the Charter of the New Urbanism. To help give a real world example to the discussion, we will look at how these opportunities can apply locally to key TOD sites along the proposed Macon to Atlanta passenger rail line. Don't miss the insights, breaking news and best practices that will be discussed during this interactive session. Learn more at www.creatingauthenticplaces.com.

AFFORDABLE HOUSING AND SUSTAINABILITY / Room 207
 Affordable housing is one of New Urbanism's most challenging principles to realize. This session will explore the roles of physical design and public policy in producing affordable housing in the context of sustainable neighborhoods. The presentations will provide an update on efforts in several cities. A panel of respondents will comment on the challenges that lie ahead. Shelley Poticha will describe the new Sustainable Communities program of the Federal Government. The final hour will be organized as small group discussions in order to debate and define CNU's role moving this agenda forward.

GOING BEYOND LEED-ND: EXAMINATION OF COMMUNITY-WIDE SUSTAINABILITY CERTIFICATION SYSTEMS - Two Back-to-Back Sessions / Grand Salon C
 New certification programs are going beyond LEED-ND and aspire to assess the sustainability of entire communities and cities. Our cities are built pursuant to codes. Do existing form-based codes produce sustainable cities? If not, where do they come up short? This session will examine codes through the prism of four programs: STAR, Living Building Challenge, One Planet Communities, and EarthCraft Communities.

TALKING THE TALK: FRAMING NEW URBANISM FOR METROPOLITAN DECISION MAKERS / Grand Salon B
 Tough economic times are making infrastructure, development and government budgeting decisions especially complex. Given the benefits

New Urbanism delivers ranging from greater property appreciation to lower infrastructure costs, current conditions represent a new window of opportunity to discuss New Urbanism in more urgent and relevant terms. What framing works best? How can we position key projects, decisions and code changes in terms that are compelling to this most crucial audience? And how does that discussion link to other important audiences including the general public, developers and neighborhood leaders. This session will include insights from top consultants, developers and regional decision makers who have been in the trenches.

CLEAN WATER CORRIDORS, GREENED ACRES, AND ECO-DISTRICTS: COMMUNITY SCALE URBAN RETROFIT STRATEGIES / Room 208
 Cities across the country are pursuing district level, integrated design strategies to improve sustainable water infrastructure performance at neighborhood scales. This session will explore efforts in this arena from three metro areas: Philadelphia, which is implementing a series of Greened Acres, integrating natural drainage across the city to manage stormwater sustainably; Portland, Oregon, which is developing water and energy efficient Eco-Districts to accelerate neighborhood-scale sustainability; and Minneapolis-St. Paul, where neighborhood and light rail redevelopments are re-opening stream channels and creating a water sensitive transit corridor.

FRIDAY NIGHT PLENARY / Grand Ballroom AB

THE SHIFTING FINANCIAL LANDSCAPE Ray Christman, Director of metropolitan Atlanta's Livable Communities Coalition, is a prominent banker, affordable housing expert, and member of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta's Real Estate Analytics Center's Advisory Council. He will speak to the finance questions on new urbanists' minds before discussing future economic challenges and opportunities with CNU Board members and developers Sam Sherman and Katharine Kelley. Kelly Caffarelli of the Home Depot Foundation will launch the Sustainable Cities Initiative.

ATHENA MEDAL TO JAQUELIN T. ROBERTSON The annual awarding of the Athena Medals honor inspirational leaders who laid the groundwork for New Urbanism. Tonight Dhiru Thadani will present the Athena Medal to Jaquelin T. Robertson, former Dean of The School of Architecture at the University of Virginia and Founding Partner, Cooper Robertson & Partners. Renowned theorist and architect Peter Eisenman will join Jaquelin and Dhiru for a tribute and discussion on Jaque's contribution to the field of planning and urban design.

CHAPTER MEET-UPS
7:30 PM - 10:00 PM

Chapter Meet-Ups are an opportunity to gather with other new urbanists from back home to network and learn about what's happening in your region. For more information about chapters, visit www.cnu.org/chapters

7:30 PM - 9:30 PM

CNU CASCADIA CHAPTER MEET-UP / McCormick & Schmick's Seafood Restaurant, 190 Marietta Stree, One CNN Center

CNU Cascadia welcomes any Congress participant to attend an informal gathering for cocktails at McCormick & Schmick's. We will be celebrating our formal chapter status and third annual summit in Vancouver, B.C. this June. Hope to see you there. This event is open to all, contact Lauren Hauck at lauren.hauck@gmail.com with any questions. Within a 0.7 mile walk from the conference hotel.

CNU CAROLINAS CHAPTER MEET UP / Max Lagers, 320 Peachtree Street

The CNU Carolinas Chapter will host a networking social with fresh brewed beer and other drinks at Max Lagers for CNU members from the Carolinas, and elsewhere, to meet each other and find out what everyone has been working on. CNU Carolinas Chapter members will enjoy the first round of drinks on the Chapter and anyone is free to stay for dinner. Come hear what our chapter has been doing this past year and learn our plans for the future! Open event. Please RSVP to carolinas@cnu.org if you plan to attend. Walk two blocks west on Baker Street and then one block northeast on Peachtree Street.

CNU COLORADO CHAPTER MEET UP / Max Lagers, 320 Peachtree Street

Grab a drink and a bite to eat with your fellow CNU members from Colorado. Open event, for more information contact Ronnie@wllarch.com

CNU DC & CNU NEW ENGLAND CHAPTER MEET UP / Thrive Restaurant,

101 Marietta Street

Please join us for a cocktail reception to honor this year's Athena Medal winner, Jaque Robertson, and a fun opportunity to reconnect with friends from the Washington DC and New England regions. Open event for chapter members - find a Board Member for a free drink ticket.

7:30 PM - 10:00 PM

CNU GREAT LAKES CHAPTER MEET UP / Beleza, 905 Juniper Street @ 8th Street

Meet and greet fellow New Urbanists from the Great Lakes Region including CNU Illinois and CNU Michigan chapter members as well as the growing Wisconsin and Minnesota chapter organizing committees. Learn first hand about plans for CNU 19 in Madison Wisconsin. Light Hors D'oeuvres and desserts will be served for a modest cover charge at the Brazilian inspired Beleza Lounge, just one mile north of the convention hotel, one block east of Peachtree St. in the Midtown neighborhood.

CNU FLORIDA CHAPTER MEET UP / Location updates at www.cnuflorida.org

Join CNU Florida in Atlanta for cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. Meet new officers and board members, catch-up on the latest news, connect with old friends, and meet new ones. Show your support for your CNU Florida Chapter. This is an open event.

7:45 PM - 9:30 PM

CNU NY, NJ & PA CHAPTER MEET UP / Millennium Gate, 395 17th Street at State St.

CNU New York and CNU New Jersey along with the Pennsylvania chapter organizing committee invite all chapter members to a party inside the Millennium Gate, a new Triumphal Arch and Atlanta city museum in the Atlantic Station development. Our co-hosts will be Rodney Cook, the Council for European Urbanism and the Prince's Foundation for the Built Environment. Free food & cash bar. Take MARTA to Arts Center, ASAP+ (free shuttle bus) to 17th Street at Atlantic Drive, then walk one short block to 395

17th Street.

NU NORTHERN CALIFORNIA CHAPTER MEET UP / Living Room at W Hotel, 45 Ivan Allen Jr. Boulevard

Californians from the "upper 48", join us for news about the chapter, an informal meeting and discussion about upcoming chapter events, and meet-and-greet with other chapter members. No RSVP or ticket required, for more information visit <http://cnu-california.blogspot.com/>. Walking distance from the Hilton.

Join us at our Saturday morning plenary for a look at New Urbanism's past, present, and future, as CNU co-founder Elizabeth Plater-Zyberk honors Vincent Scully with an Athena Medal for Lifetime Achievement, and Mayor Dave Cieslewicz previews CNU 19: Growing Local, June 1-4, 2011, in one of the nation's leading bicycle capitals, Madison, WI. Eleanor Smith of Concrete Change, and Andres Duany will discuss CNU's role in accessibility and new houses and highlight a new pattern book on accessibility.

Dave Cieslewicz, Mayor, City of Madison / Andrés Duany, Principal, Duany Plater-Zyberk & Company / Jane Grabowski-Miller, RLA, ASLA, CNUA, Vice President of Planning & Urban Design, Erdman Development Group / Moderator: Chris Kochtitzky, MSP, Associate Director for Program Development, Div. of Emergency & Environmental Health Services, CDC's National Center for Environmental Health (NCEH) / Eleanor Smith, Director, Concrete Change

9:45 AM - 11:00 AM

HOSPITALS AND NEIGHBORHOODS / Grand Salon C

The modern hospital, whether urban or rural, exerts an impact on an entire region. Too often, the impact is detrimental to adjacent neighborhoods. The redesign of the health care campus to community design standards with mixed-use, residential, and public space yields attractive, sustainable, and better performing health care facilities that appeal to patients, families, medical staff, employees, and neighbors alike.

Dougal Hewitt, Senior Vice President, Bon Secours Richmond Health System / Parry La Gro, Principal, Kathy Helm Associates /

Moderator: Joanna Lombard, Professor, University of Miami

URBAN SUCCESS STORIES: HEALTH-DRIVEN POLICY CHANGES / Room 208

Looking for great examples at all scales of how planners and public health leaders have collaborated to promote healthier communities? Dr. Dick Jackson will talk about his work at the federal and state level, Dr. Daniel Parker will present outcomes of PACE EH projects in Florida, and Dr. Craig Zimring will discuss how New York City produced and adopted its Active Living Guidelines.

Richard J. Jackson, MD MPH, Professor and Chair, Environmental Health Sciences, UCLA School of Public Health / Daniel Parker, MSP, Sustainability Director, Division of Environmental Public Health, Florida Department of Health / Craig Zimring, Georgia Institute of Technology / Margo Younger, Centers for Disease Control / Moderator: Chinyere O. Ekechi, JD, Public Health Analyst, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

THE SUSTAINABLE REGION - GREENING THE LAND, THE ECONOMY, AND THE BUILT ENVIRONMENT / Room 207

In addition to trapping too much of the sun's heat, the metropolis is also absorbing and producing too much heat. The complexities and connections of land use, urban heat islands, albedo, forestation, transportation, greener buildings and communities will be discussed along with greener regional economies, including the creation of local jobs and supply chains - with some promising and not-so-promising examples from Atlanta, the United Kingdom and Dubai.

Hank Dittmar, Chief Executive, The Prince's Foundation / Brian Stone, Professor, Georgia Institute of Technology / Moderator: Doug Kelbaugh, FAIA, Professor at Taubman College of Architecture & Urban Planning, University of Michigan

9:45 AM - 12:45 PM

TRANSPORTATION NETWORKS / INITIATIVE WORKSHOP / Grand Salon B

The sustainable transportation network supports the creation and maintenance of great places—those high-quality environments that strengthen neighborhood identity and culture. Networks are the key element of the public realm; they provide the context for blocks, parks, and buildings and the setting for human interaction served by a truly supportive pedestrian environment. A highly connected, human-scaled network supported by a diversity of streets is essential to a healthy urban environment.

Philip Erickson, AIA, President, Community Design + Architecture / Norman Garrick, Associate Professor Civil and Environmental Engineering, University of Connecticut / Lucy Gibson, Principal, Smart Mobility, Inc. / Jacky Grimshaw, Vice President for Policy, Center for Neighborhood Technology / Thomas Kronemeyer, Senior Associate Principal, Community Design + Architecture / Marcy McInnelly, AIA, Associate Principal, SERA Architects / John Peponis, Professor, Georgia Institute of Technology / Sally Flocks, Executive Director PEDS / Moderator: Joseph P. Readdy, AIA, Architect, JRA

AGRICULTURAL URBANISM PART 2 / INITIATIVE WORKSHOP /

The second part of this workshop will give some historical perspective surrounding the incorporation of growing food in post-industrial agricultural communities within the past 100 years. Presentation highlights include an overview of new towns in Spain in the 1950s, the 1986 founding of the Slow Food Movement, and the more recent work of progressive cities such as Vancouver (Note: Cities in developing countries maintain a close connection to intra-urban agriculture; this discussion focuses on affluent nations, for now). The session will then examine contemporary local examples of growing food in Atlanta, including a discussion of business. The session will end with a panel discussion some of the challenges facing the implementation of these communities today, including zoning and a call for volunteers to organize an official CNU initiative on the subject.

Vinayak Bharne, Associate, Moule and Polyzoides / Janine de la Salle, Director, Food Systems Planning, HB Lanarc Consultants Ltd. / Bryan Hager, Crager Hager Farm / Daron Joffe, CFO, Chief Farming Officer, Farmer D Organics / Jean-Francois LeJeune, Professor and Director of Graduate Studies, University of Miami / Christina Miller, Duany-Plater-Zyberk & Company / Ben Northrup, Architect / Daniel K. Stone, Esquire, Partner, McGuireWoods LLP / Moderator: Andrés Duany, Principal, Duany Plater-Zyberk & Company

CREATING AUTHENTIC PLACES: EMERGING BEST PRACTICES FOR NEW URBAN DEVELOPERS PART 2 / INITIATIVE WORKSHOP /

Grand Salon A

Join some of CNU's best development professionals for the second half of a collaborative workshop exploring how to improve the implementation of the Charter of the New Urbanism. Building on the discussions of Part 1, our speakers will focus on the details of building and developing authentic places. Market conditions and positioning, improvements to the development process and dealing with today's financing environment will be discussed as well as how these might apply to several local TOD sites. Join this collaborative session, and help advance CNU's mission by sharing you thoughts and experiences on the best practices for creating authentic places. Learn more at www.creatingauthenticplaces.com.

Katharine Kelley, President and CEO, Green Street Properties / Pam Sessions, Founder, Hedgewood Properties / Todd Zimmerman, Co-Managing Director, Zimmerman/Volk Associates Inc / Moderator: Russell S. Preston, Design Associate, Cornish Associates

11:00 AM - 11:30 AM

BREAK / Grand Salon D
Refreshments provided.

11:30 AM - 12:45 PM

ACADEMIC PAPERS: FOCUS ON HEALTH / Grand Salon C

Showcasing research on a range of topics about New Urbanism, papers were peer-reviewed and selected for their academic rigor, originality, scholarship, and creativity. If you are interested in the most recent investigations and trends, you won't want to miss this session.

Wesley Marshall, PhD, PE, Assistant Professor, Department of Civil Engineering, University of Colorado Denver "Evidence on Why bike-friendly cities are safer for all road users" / Michael Mehaffy, Managing Director, Sustasis Foundation "Medical science, evidence-based design, and the evolving implications for best practice in Urban Design" / Steven Ryherd, Principal, Arpeggio Acoustic Consulting, LLC "Acoustic expectations, health effects and design techniques in the urban environment" / Bill Sadler, Graduate student in Master of Urban & Regional Planning, University of Colorado Denver "Complete streets make healthier people: reforming street design policies to combat obesity" / Moderator: Elizabeth Plater-Zyberk, Principal, Duany Plater-Zyberk & Company / Convener: Lucy M. Rowland, MS, MLS Head, Science Collections & Research Facilities University of Georgia Libraries

NEW TRENDS IN THE RETAIL INDUSTRY FOR THE RECESSION RECOVERY: AN INCREASED RELIANCE ON SMALL RETAILERS /

Room 208

In response to the latest economic meltdown, the shopping center industry is once again reinventing itself. Walkable communities, historic downtowns and small specialty retailers are now considered as the best economically sustainable option by developers and financial institutions. Gain an insider's look at how leading shopping center developers, retailers, department stores, and architects' programs are planning for the next cycle. The panel will discuss what types of financing, retailers and commercial formats are emerging in 2011 and beyond. In addition, we will discuss integrating large format retailers in the city and new town centers. This program is ideal for architects, developers, planners, retailers, and public officials.

Robert Gibbs, President, Gibbs Planning Group / Francis Scire, Senior Leasing Executive, Simon Property Group / Terry Shook, Founding Partner and Principal, Shook Kelley Architects / Rob Spanier, Vice President, Live Work Learn Play LLP

REINVIGORATING SUBURBAN CENTERS AND SMALL TOWNS: THE LCI EXPERIENCE /

Room 207

How can existing towns, villages, and suburban centers within a metropolitan area reduce auto-dependence? This session showcases successes from the Atlanta Regional Commission's Livable Centers Initiatives (LCI) 10-year program. Winner of the EPA's 2008 national award for smart growth, this program puts transportation funds towards urban design planning and implementation of more transportation efficient, healthy, and livable places. Over 100 communities have engaged in the program, incrementally building a more sustainable region. Experiences in the process as well as early retrofit results will be highlighted in a Pecha Kucha format to quickly give participants an overview of several projects with ample opportunity for follow-up discussion.

Marty Allen, City of Suwanee / Andrew Dannenberg, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention / Kay Lee, The Center, Covington / Lyn Menne, City of Decatur / Tom Weyandt, Atlanta Regional Commission / Yvonne Williams, President, Perimeter Community Improvement Districts

1:00 PM - 2:00 PM INITIATIVE MEETINGS

This is your chance to get updates on the latest CNU Initiatives that advance the practice of New Urbanism throughout the year. Whether it is updates on affordable housing, accessibility or the Project for Transportation reform, bring your lunch and join the movement leaders.

ACCESSIBILITY MEETING /

Room 208

Attendance at this year's Accessibility Luncheon is worth professional development credit! Participants will learn the essential features of a "Visitable" home, discover the basic differences between Visitable and Accessible housing, and learn how to use the Pattern Book of Inclusive Housing. Join us for a fun and informative session aimed at helping designers and developers support aging-in-place.

Edward Steinfeld, Professor of Architecture and Director, Center for Inclusive Design and Environmental Access, Center for Inclusive Design and Environmental Access, School of Architecture and Planning, SUNY/Bufalo / Shannon Chance, AIA, Associate Professor of Architecture, Hampton University

ACADEMIC PAPER MEETING /

Grand Salon C

Join others interested in advancing academic theory, research, and publications on new urbanism. Get involved in CNU's peer review process for academic papers for next year and share news of academic programs engaging new urbanism.

Moderator: Elizabeth Plater-Zyberk, Principal, Duany Plater-Zyberk & Company / Convener: Lucy M. Rowland, MS, MLS Head, Science Collections & Research Facilities University of Georgia Libraries

AFFORDABILITY MEETING /

Grab a box lunch and join others interested in advancing CNU's initiative on affordability. Discuss new hurdles, next steps, and how to build on this year's Initiative Workshop. What will you volunteer to do?

Moderator: Emily Talen, PhD AICP, Professor, School of Geographical Sciences and Urban Planning, Arizona State University

PROJECT FOR TRANSPORTATION REFORM MEETING /

Grand Salon B

The Project for Transportation Reform (PTR), a CNU initiative promoting the implementation of connected, multi-modal street networks as the answer to many of our transportation, safety, land use and urban design problems, has made significant progress since its initiation. In addition to reducing carbon emissions, improved street network connectivity has been demonstrated to increase pedestrian safety, increase vehicular capacity, reduce emergency response time, create higher land values, promote economic viability of cities, towns and main streets and contribute to a sense of place.

Moderator: Joseph P. Readdy, AIA, Architect, JRA

SPRAWL RETROFIT INITIATIVE MEETING /

Room 207

Sprawl is the least sustainable growth pattern, and as increasing evidence shows, has unsupportable environmental, social, economic and even medical costs. Yet it still represents a major portion of the built environment that can't be ignored. For many years, New Urbanists have been engaged in repairing sprawl into quality human environments. Now we have launched a major initiative to develop a new generation of effective strategies and policies to retrofit sprawling regions. Grab a box lunch and join us to discuss and develop important tools, such as the Sprawl Repair Act - a legal document that will be a key focus of this critical effort.

TALK NERDY TO ME: HOW DO WE GET TO HEALTHIER OPEN SPACES? /

Grand Salon A

Discerning the ideal points of collaboration between design professionals and public health researchers will lead to more efficient and mutually beneficial partnerships. Open space is generally held to be a healthy amenity in communities, and designers pay special attention to the public space components of their plans. This session focuses on the "how" behind open space, and what professionals from each discipline can do to facilitate the other's work.

HARNESSING THE MARKET TO CREATE LIFELONG NEIGHBORHOODS /

Grand Salon B

From active adult retirement communities to nursing homes, the seniors housing industry most often responds to aging as a series of specific, "needs-based" market segments requiring specialized building types and unique urban forms. This panel looks at how the expertise developed in these specialized seniors' communities can be redirected to better serve the continuous life spans of residents in traditional neighborhoods.

THINKING ABOUT INTERCITY PASSENGER RAIL, HIGH SPEED RAIL, AND URBANISM /

Grand Salon C

This session will explore the connections between urbanism and intercity passenger rail. Intercity passenger rail, specifically the high speed variety has become a hot topic in the United States due to more focus from the current Administration in Washington. However because our current infrastructure is limited and models are untested, this session will start us thinking about how we can apply urbanism to the station areas and ensure positive impacts.

SPRAWL RETROFIT INITIATIVE & CUMBERLAND TOD WORKSHOP /

Room 207

Can we retrofit our sprawling communities through repair and redevelopment? Find out at the interactive Sprawl Retrofit Initiative workshop! The first hour includes a dynamic Pecha Kucha presentation by members of the initiative, overviewing ideas in design, regulation and implementation of sprawl retrofit to achieve healthier communities. The second part will evolve around an interactive review of the ground-breaking Cumberland Edge City retrofit to a green TOD (transit-oriented development) with local, regional and federal implications. Initiative members, national experts and project stake holders will discuss the design approach and recommend a framework for implementation. Finally, we will have a conversation about the future of our Sprawl Retrofit Initiative and what we want to accomplish in the upcoming year in terms of design, policies or research.

COMBATING URBAN DESTRUCTION: HAVANA AND BOMBAY/MUMBAI /

Room 208

Urban destruction can occur by neglect, abject poverty, financial distress and by the toxic import of American post-World War II planning. Havana, a Caribbean metropolis with a European influence, has been spared the damage of the global overdevelopment of the second half of the 19th Century. However, its harmonious juxtaposition of impressive buildings, is currently threatened by overdevelopment, sprawl and neglect. Bombay flourished in the 19th and early 20th centuries as the gateway to India's riches through its mercantile port. Since Independence in 1947, the island city has been a magnet for migration making it the densest city in the world, with over 200 persons per acre. Learn how these two cities are facing twenty first century challenges.

ASSESSING NEIGHBORHOODS AT THE BLOCK LEVEL /

Grand Salon A
Drawing from original and peer-reviewed research on the impact of the built environment on public health, the Florida Department of Health and University of Miami's School of Architecture and Miller School of Medicine formed an interdisciplinary team to develop an accessible Walkability Assessment tool. Describing the initial research and the online tool, the panelists present practical design strategies that enhance public health. Scott C. Brown, Research Assistant Professor, Department of Epidemiology and Public Health at the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine / Moderator: Joanna Lombard, Professor, University of Miami

THE NEXT URBANISM IS NOT NEW URBANISM /

Join Andres Duany as he challenges new urbanists to look at the future through the lens of landscape urbanism. What can we learn from the landscape urbanists' aestheticized embrace of environmental issues? Their strategic positioning relative to the power bases of high culture, elite education, and green design?

DEVELOPING A MANIFESTO TO SPREAD THE BIKING REVOLUTION TO MORE BIG AMERICAN CITIES /

Grand Salon C

More and more American cities are adopting plans to increase bicycle mode share and improve the urban environment. We will look at some of the cities that have had the most success incorporating bikes into their existing tight urban context and have reaped the rewards that result from changing the culture and expectations about travel in cities. Speakers will share tactics and war stories that will help other cities craft winning strategies for bringing about their own biking revolutions.

CHARTER AWARDS /

Grand Ballroom AB

Vince Graham, founder and president of the l'On Group based in Mt. Pleasant, S.C. and Jury Chair for the CNU 2010 Charter Awards, will conclude CNU18 by honoring the best of the New Urbanism. The 2010 Charter Awards ceremony acknowledges eleven works that fulfill the promise of the Charter of the New Urbanism through outstanding urbanism, often in contexts that cry out for repair and re-establishment of resilient urban communities. Vince Graham will describe leading lessons and trends learned from this year's award winners and frame how New Urbanism is reshaping and redeeming our cities and towns. As CNU 18 marks the 10th anniversary of our first awards program, we look forward to discussing the impacts of applying new urbanist principles to the built environment. Prior to the ceremony, outgoing CNU Board President and noted principal of Urban Design Associates, Ray Gindroz will present a retrospective of his work, A life in Urbanism 46 years in 20 minutes.

An Evening of Farm-to-Table Food, within the CNU Charter Award winning Glenwood Park

Please join your friends and colleagues in celebrating the conclusion of our 18th Congress for the New Urbanism on Saturday evening, May 22, from 7:30pm to 11:30pm at the CNU Charter Award winning development, Glenwood Park. The evening will feature a menu of local food from The Shed, including organic vegetables, goat cheese and additional local fare combined to create imaginative "sliders" and various side dishes. Along with the mouth-watering array of food, your first beverage is also included with your ticket. An Organic Yogurt "Sundae Bar" will cap off the evening. In addition to dining, participants will be treated to a taste of New Urbanism at night. The Seed and Feed Marching Abominables will lead a "march" and performance throughout the neighborhood, including stops at some of the great restaurants, parks, and homes that animate and illuminate Glenwood Park. Several New Urbanist homes will be open to welcome attendees to a private, insider's view of life in this great new neighborhood while several new urbanist troubadours will surprise us with their musical tributes to zoning reform, street widths, planning commissions and other wonky entertainments. Meet at 7:00PM at the Hotel Entrance for bus transportation to Glenwood Park.
